COVID-19: Rule changes on hold for 4 weeks as Delta spreads

The Welsh Government has announced there will be no substantive changes to the rules and regulations for a further 4 week period to guard against the new Delta variant. Some small technical amendments are being made to the regulations to make them easier to understand and implement, these include:

- The size of the venue and a risk assessment will now determine the number of people who can attend a wedding or civil partnership reception or wake, organised by a business in an indoors regulated premise, such as a hotel
- Clarifying that small grassroots music and comedy venues will be able to operate on the same basis as hospitality venues, like pubs and cafés
