

Comments, Compliments and Complaints

All organisations should have a procedure to deal with feedback from people who use or are in contact with services.

If you are not happy with the service you are receiving you are entitled to complain. It is best to try to sort out any problems or concerns as soon as they arise. Minor problems can usually be sorted quite quickly. Complaints which are more complex can take a lot of time before they are fully resolved.

You might also wish to give positive feedback on a service with which you are particularly happy and which you think has worked well. This is very helpful to organisations when they are reviewing and planning services. Most organisations also welcome ideas as to how they might do things differently and better.

Gwynedd Council

Complaints, both formal and informal, should be made directly to the Council Department concerned. If you are unsure whom you should contact, telephone Galw Gwynedd on 01766 771000 and they will put you in touch with the relevant department/person.

Social Services have produced a booklet Listening, Responding, Improving. Copies are available in all libraries and Council offices. The first point of contact to feedback on services is the Customer Care and Information Unit, who will listen to any complaint and help you to resolve it.

The Care Inspectorate in Wales regulate social care services in Wales, including care homes and other care providers (as well as social services). They can be contacted if you have a concern or complaint about a service provider whom they regulate, and they will look to see whether they are providing a safe service or if they are failing to meet the requirements and conditions of their registration. They cannot deal with complaints linked to individual circumstances but will direct to the organisation best placed to help.
